PITT HIRES FESLER; BIG TEN BID SEEN

Ohio State Star Takes Over Shaughnessy Hot Spot.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, March 13—An ex-Ohio State football player was the new University of Pittsburgh grid coach today and there was speculation that the appointment may be another step in the Panthers bid for Big Ten membership

Wesley Fesler, now assistant coach at Princeton and a former gridiron great at Ohio State, was named yesterday to succeed Clark D Shaughnessy who resigned Feb 4 to return to the University of Maryland

It was the latest chapter in Pitt's troubled athletic history that began with Dr John (Jock) Sutherland's stormy exit in 1938 That was the year Pitt decided to de-emphasize the football teams that won 111 out of 131 games and went thrice to the Rose Bowl placed itself under the rules of the western Big Ten conference

As the quality of Pitt football declined the schedules got tougher with the emphasis on conference foes Last year the Panthers played and lost four games with Big Ten rivals

Chicago formally dropped out of the Big Ten last week, leaving Ohio States Pitt officials do not deny they are seeking.

Fully some of Pitt's alumni who talked out with Sutherland admitted they were disappointed with the selection

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"YES, I do believe Philip has completely changed his attitude toward Mary," I told Olga.

Then I leaned forward in my chair and took her hands in mine.

"And I know," I said earnestly, "as does Mary, and her uncle Dicky, who, above all others, is responsible for that change in Philip's viewpoint."

She did not pretend to misunderstand me.

"I am going to give you a sacred confidence now, which I know you will forget as soon as you have heard it," she said, and I made the time-honored childish gesture of "crossing my heart," known to all nationalities.

"My word of honor," I said, and she smiled affectionately at me.

"I do not need that," she assured me, "I know that my simple request for secrecy would be your law."

"Thank you," I said, and after a second she told me the secret.

Made a Condition

"When I promised to marry Philip," she said simply, "I made a condition that he stop all his utterly false—even nonsensical—views of having Noel marry Olina, simply because both were of royal blood, even if—but you know that painful old story. We do not need to bring it up again."

I nodded, for I knew if she had finished her sentence it would have run "even if Noel's royal inheritance was by her sinister."

"He gave me the promise freely, as well as one to treat Mary as if she were his daughter in fact instead of in-law. He has kept both royally, as he would. You know Philip."

"Indeed I do," I said sincerely. "and, Olga, will you be surprised if I tell you that I guessed long ago the secret you have just told me?"

She looked at me with eyes widened in astonishment.

"You did!" she asked. "How could you?"

Confidential Associate

"You forget," I said, "that I was a confidential professional associate of your husband's for many years before I wrote my play and left the office end of the organization."

"No, I do not forget that," she said. "Philip has told me so often of how invaluable your research and knowledge were to him. He often wishes you were back."

"Then," I said, "you must know that I understand his moods and mental processes fairly well."

She nodded, smiling in comradely fashion at me.

"So well," she said, "that if you were not you, and I did not love you so much, I should be wildly jealous of you."

We both laughed, the mirth of good friends above petty emotions, and I went on.

Strongest Incentives

"Therefore you can deduce," I said, "that I know nothing but the very strongest of incentives would induce him to change his mind about Noel's marrying Olina, even if it meant breaking up Noel's marriage to Mary. He had an idea fixed on that royal lineage thing, and when I saw his change of attitude, I know that you alone, in all the world, could have persuaded him to change his course."

"The important thing is that he has changed," she said, rising. "And now, I really must go back, with a mind more relieved than I could have deemed possible when I came down here. I can leave the warning of Mary in your hands, then?"

"I shall see to it that she knows what to expect," I said, "and you may be sure that she will rise to the occasion beautifully."

"And I shall try to keep Olina from 'rising' too much," she said, and we parted on the little jest, which told me more than could anything else, how much happier she was then when she had come into the apartment.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Joint Inflammation

Rheumatoid arthritis is an inflammation of the joints which occurs in young adults, and causes deformity of the joints. Although the exact cause of rheumatoid arthritis is not known, there are many things which suggest that in part it may be due to some sort of infection

For example, such symptoms as inflammation of the affected joints, fever, rapid heart beat and loss of weight would seem to indicate that the joint inflammation is the result of infection.

Because of these facts I have received many letters asking whether or not penicillin is of value in treating arthritis since penicillin has been shown to be helpful in infections produced by a variety of germs such as the staphylococcus and streptococcus.

Treatment for arthritis has not heretofore by any means been satisfactory. Measures usually employed such as rest, both physical and mental, rest of the joints, the application of heat and the use of a diet rich in vitamins have all been found helpful to some extent, but none apparently have been curative.

According to Dr. Bernard I. Comroe of Philadelphia, the only chemical substance which appears to be of value in treating rheumatoid arthritis is gold salts. However, these gold salts are toxic or poisonous. Some patients with arthritis are not improved by this form of treatment, and when the treatment is stopped even in the cases that are improved, relapses occur. It has been reported by many observers that patients are improved by using high dosages of vitamin D.

Dr. Comroe tried treatment of six patients who had rheumatoid arthritis, with penicillin, giving at least 100,000 units daily for two weeks. In five, the condition had been present for at least four years. In one of these, it had started in childhood, had improved and then flared up again five years later. In the sixth patient, the arthritis had been apparent only eight weeks before treatment was begun.

The penicillin was given by injection into a muscle every three hours day and night for at least two weeks. All of the patients were in the hospital during the course of the treatment and all showed an active form of the joint inflammation before the penicillin treatment was started. There were swelling of the joints, fever, rapid heart beat, loss of weight, wasting of the muscles and swelling of the tissues around the joint.

There was no evidence that the penicillin altered the course of the disease in any way. During the penicillin treatment, application of heat, proper diet, and the use of drugs for relieving pain were continued, to aid in relieving symptoms.

A great deal further study of arthritis is needed, since there is little known concerning its cause. In view of the fact that penicillin does not affect the condition, it would appear that infection may not play a very prominent role in the disease.

The arthritic should not, however, give up hope, for with proper care and the use of many of the measures suggested, improvement can be brought about.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. M. S.: Is there any method of removing tiny veins from under the nose?

Answer: It is possible that the veins may be made much less noticeable by injection treatments. However, I suggest that you consult a skin specialist about this matter.

Boyle Learns Secret of Long Life in Egypt

By HAL BOYLE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CAIRO, March 13—The firmest advocate of Egypt's custom of taking a siesta during the hot months is an American dentist who has practiced here for 30 years. He is big and heartily healthy. When he is complimented on the way he has endured the climate here he replies:

"There is nothing wrong with this climate if you learn to live comfortable than Cairo's famous the Egyptians themselves do. You've got to take a good afternoon nap.

Hal Boyle

"There are too many Americans and Englishmen who come out here and pooh-pooh the siesta habit. They are healthy, active middle-aged men and they simply refuse to take it easy when they should. While I am lying down in the afternoon enjoying a pleasant refreshing sleep they are tramping around a golf course in the hot sun or galloping around some tennis court.

"The fools! The first thing you know they keel over and die of heart attacks. I wouldn't mind it so much—everybody has got to lead his own life—but I hate to go to their funerals and they always hold them in the afternoon. Then I have to miss my siesta—all because they didn't have common sense.

Floating Hotels Used

Cairo hotels are as crowded as those in western cities. One of the biggest ambitions of any traveler is to arrive in some city late at night and find two rooms with three baths waiting for him instead of one room with four roommates and one washbowl. It is a futile hope.

I ended up in a houseboat on the Nile. To solve the housing shortage tourist agencies have turned their river steamers into floating hotels.

They are anchored in one of the best residential districts in Cairo and in many ways are more comfortable than Cairo's famous but much more old-fashioned land based hostelries.

You have a very chummy feeling with the buried Pharaohs when you wake at 10 a.m. and lazily watch orange peels floating downstream past your window toward the Mediterranean.

Each boat has a well furnished bar lounge and dining room but its regular employes feel they are slumming. They don't like that anchored feeling.

Next winter we will have our regular tourist cruises on the Nile, said the Sales manager. Then everybody will be happy again.

He and all his men want to get back to the old familiar ways of peace, the old ways that are so hard sometimes to find again after the tumult and uncertainty of war.

Sons 'No Good'

If the two sons of Capt. William B. Foster, Albuquerque, New Mexico, pulp magazine writer were under 18 years of age—and also living at home—he could get out of the Army on points.

But, Sgt. William Jr., 23, and Corp. Russell, 20, both went into the service under Uncle Sam's colors too so their dad's service points don't mean a thing.

"If they were both home and under 18 I'd have 67 points—just what I need to get out," said Foster, whose oldest boy was already on the way home when I talked to the father in New Delhi, India.

Foster, who now has a daughter, Judy, 16, waiting at home for him, has gathered in enough first-hand material during his three years in the service.

As one of the few big boy-woman western story magazine writers his tales run into several million words and friends expect that from now on his cowboys will be riding Pegasus.

SAYS BRITISH SHOULD GIVE BASES IN DEAL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13 — Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace said yesterday he thought Great Britain should transfer certain war bases to the United States on a permanent basis.

He also told the senate banking committee that he would not support the proposed $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain for a moment if he thought it was a step toward alliance with Britain.

Wallace commented on these points in reply to questions after reading a prepared statement indorsing the loan.

Senator McFarland (D-Ariz.) mentioned, without specifying by name, the transfer of war bases built by the U. S. on British soil. He asked whether Britain should not be willing to transfer these permanently.

"Yes, I think she should be," Wallace replied.

Wallace said there was some slight risk of financial loss in the proposed loan, but the risk of not making the loan is much greater.

More births than deaths were registered in Marion during February, according to a report from the city health office.

The report showed 65 births recorded during last month compared to 52 deaths. Of the total births 35 were boys and 30 were girls. Of the deaths 32 were men and 20 were women. Births in the city were one less in February than in January and deaths were 11 less.

Only two births were reported in the county last month according to the county health office, although health officials pointed out that most babies in the county were born in Marion City hospital and therefore registered with the city health department. Deaths in the county during February totaled 11, four more than during January.

We Sincerely Regret That We Cannot Accept--For The Present--Any Further Requests For Hosiery--

SINCE our special announcement of February 19th we have received thousands of very fine letters and post card requests

These have now reached that point where it will require months to complete the list

While the allotments of NYLONS which we are to receive from the manufacturers promise to increase steadily the supply still remains woefully short of meeting the demand

However, with the approach of warm weather we have reasons to believe that the present acute shortage will steadily be relieved

In the meantime, just as rapidly as our shipments of NYLONS are received we will strive to notify our good customers both cash and credit when their stockings are here

As we so frequently have repeated, we are certain to make many mistakes, despite the very best efforts

Wherever mistakes occur, we can only humbly hope that our good friends will understand that we are doing the best we know how.
It is fully realized that "our best" will not be nearly good enough for any good and perfect solution of this baffling problem is quite beyond us.

We can only request your tolerant understanding of the difficult dilemma which merchants face

THANKS---from the very bottom of our hearts, for your hearty and friendly response to our new plan of distributing NYLONS

THE WONDERFULLY fine letters which so many of you have taken the time and trouble to write, did our hearts good.

Your kind and considerate response has given us renewed determination to spare neither effort nor expense In an "all out" effort to handle the matter as fairly as it possibly can be.

We hope to receive additional shipments of NYLONS during the present month. As rapidly as such shipments arrive, cards will be mailed out to just as many as possible of those of you who have mailed in your names

But please remember that this necessarily must take considerable time which will be entirely dependent upon how many pairs of NYLONS we secure from the manufacturers.

Please permit us to voice, once again, our sincere thanks and appreciation.

He said he expected to fly to France Sunday to begin a tour of food shortage countries for the American government.

He was asked to comment upon criticism of his selection to help conduct the food conservation program in this country and to survey conditions abroad. His questioner said he referred to criticism made by the Political Action Committee.

"I do not get very excited over criticism," Hoover replied. "I do not want to make a formal reply to the criticism."

In appealing for the drastic cut in consumption of wheats and fats in this country, President Truman's emergency committee said such a mighty, volunteer effort is needed for the next 120 days to tide the hungry abroad over "a terrible four months until the next harvest."

Addition of Yeast To Menu One Way To Beat Food Cut

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

ATLANTIC CITY, March 13—One way for American housewives to make up for the 40 per cent cut in wheat and 20 in fats for the starving peoples overseas, is to add yeast to many of their home-cooked dishes.

Experiments showing that this addition of yeasts is both palatable and one of the greatest improvements possible in nutrition were presented today to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology by Barnett Sure, head of the department of agricultural chemistry of the University of Arkansas.

He showed by animal feeding that yeasts are one of the finest sources of protein, and furnish better proteins than those normally present in the wheat that Americans are asked to give up. The yeasts used for this purpose are both the ordinary soft and brewers yeast, the latter a by-product of breweries.

He said that these yeasts can be used readily to enrich corn bread, rice, meat dishes, soups, especially thick soups and gravies, ketchup, chili, tomato juice, peanut butter, chocolate milk, malted milk, also in bread, muffins and clam chowder and in cookies, cakes, doughnuts, pies and cheese dishes. The yeasts were said not to change flavors of the dishes.

Warrant Officers Get Income Tax Exemption

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13—An internal revenue bureau ruling yesterday gave all Army warrant and flight officers the same complete exemption from income tax on service-related pay which enlisted men enjoy.

But the ruling made "chief" warrant officers of the navy, coast guard and marines subject to income tax on service pay above $1,500, just as commissioned officers are. Other warrant officers of these three branches were given the enlisted men's exemption.

Feed Your Dog as Many Famous Breeders Do

"... find they like it and thrive ..."

Mrs. Dorothy Kennedy, noted Kel Breeder of 1300 N. Marion Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I have been using a diet based on advice by my Scotty and Kerry Blue puppies and find they like it and thrive on it. Their coats are glossy and I have had no trouble with digestive upsets. I recommend it."

MOST breeders and veterinarians base their dogs' diets on a good dry dog food fed with scrap meat, including fat. So many depend on Kellogg's eko-pur because this famous food provides every vitamin and mineral dogs are known to need.

Kellogg's eko-pur is economical... convenient to feed. Watch your dog go for its hearty, meaty flavor, and thrive!

Get this scientifically formulated dog food in 3 different forms: Ribbon, Meal, or Pel-rits—at your grocer's or pet shop. Made by KELLOGG'S of Battle Creek.

The Other Fellow's Skin

PUBLICITY given to an order to the 203rd antiaircraft battalion in Germany to refrain from criticizing Russia in the presence of Germans is a timely reminder to all of us that Germans have a vicarious interest in friction between the Allies

The battalion's commander Lt Col Frank Ebey properly reminds his command that Germans not Russians were the enemy that Russians, not Germans deserve consideration and that as soldiers occupying a defeated country his men are representatives of their government

It is too bad that Col Ebey's earnest admonition to his command should contain one wartime fallacy that has been kept in circulation by propaganda It is the fallacy that "millions of Russian soldiers and civilians died to save our skins" In various forms, the same fallacy has been circulated about Britons Greeks Poles Frenchmen Dutchmen Norwegians and Yugoslavs that they died to save American skins

All who died and sacrificed in the war to defeat Germany, Italy and Japan shared a common purpose—to defeat the enemy To advance that purpose they helped one another in varying degrees But it never was plainer than it is now that the other fellow's skin was a secondary consideration The first thought of every member of the Allies was self-preservation not abstract idealism If that had been recognized during the war and were to be recognized more honestly in attempts to avert another war, a great deal of confusion might have been stopped before it got started

Is Loan the Word?

WHEN Secretary of Treasury Vinson used up nearly 8 000 words to open congressional hearings on the $3 750 000 000 Anglo-American trade and financial agreement the ribbon clerks trying to follow the deal realized the argument would be as hard to comprehend as the amount.

There are comprehensible details here and there however One of them is a purely negative detail—the misuse of words Experts speak of the money which is to be made available to British by the United States as a credit They speak of interest rates, and such things contribute to the idea that the United States is going to make a loan to Britain The word is misleading

The American taxpayer has been fooled twice before on this word In World War I the United States made a loan to Great Britain In World War II, there was a more adroit explanation Instead of lending money, the taxpayer was told that he was lending the British a garden hose to put out a fire It was a nice figure of speech

As it turned out the hose was fastened to an American spigot This country furnished the hose, also the water The water is gone forever, and so is the hose What may have been an excellent idea has turned sour in the taxpayer's mind because he was gratuitously fooled into thinking he was going to get something back—something tangible But what was called a loan in World War I, lend-lease in World War II and now is being spoken of as a credit is really a subsidy If it were called by its right name, it would be easier to talk about and easier to understand

The Maginot Bomb

ASIDE from an occasional resolution on future use of the secret of releasing atomic energy the almost forgotten efforts in congress to establish a commission for the secrets control and the gags of would-be comedians the atomic bomb is now being taken for granted

This is possibly the most dangerous attitude that public opinion could drift into under the circumstances It is dangerous because it is founded on a conception of the atomic bomb that was formed last summer when Hiroshima and Nagasaki were blasted into ruins

When World War I ended France had a conception of future danger formed by its experience with massed armies fighting to a stalemate in trench warfare That was not the only conception formed by World War I experiences

Great Britain thought of submarine warfare as it was waged from 1914 to 1917 Military air power had to overcome the dead weight of experience with clumsy German bombers and light combat plane Tanks, it was assumed were going to be the same in the future as they had been in the past When World War II began a giant process of revelation began with it

If the atomic bomb reappears it will reappear in a modern form It has been disclosed as a matter of fact, that the bombs dropped on Japan already were obsolete though the public still was trying to comprehend them in their first form The ultimate secret is not going to be how to release atomic energy—which seems to be the secret now—but what new things are being discovered about atomic energy from month to month and year to year

The tendency to believe, because we want to believe that the atomic bomb will not be subject to the same development that is applied to all means of warfare may give the United States a Maginot Line complex more fateful than the one that misled Frenchmen into forgetting that each new weapon begets a more powerful weapon

Confusion Pattern in New Wage-Price Policy.

WASHINGTON, March 13—Now let us explain the latest Truman-Bowles wage price policy issued Monday

Rises in wage increases are to be removed and patterns established with ifs, ands and buts One of the ifs provides an 18½ cents an hour increase if the local pattern permits, but not necessarily In case this provision does not apply the cost-of-living pattern will become a bar although not automatically The cost-of-living pattern is exchanged from—and here I quote the official explanation—an increase in straight-time hourly earnings in the appropriate unit to the extent that increases had fallen short of a 33 per cent increase since January 1 1941 That is the official pattern since February 14 it is to be changed to—I quote again increases in basic wages of hourly wages of the appropriate unit have not risen 33 per cent since January 1, 1941 That is the different wage policy while official ban buts present it Different isn't it?

Policy Explained

The new policy is explained with equal simplicity The new policy I quote again will not mean a new higher level of prices There are no ifs ands or buts about this Upon this Mr Bowles is firm His OPA however simultaneously provided a out if not a butt—or battle At the very moment of the Bowles announcement it made public a general increase in the prices of men's and boys clothing in order to induce manufacturers to release their stores to the public Twenty four hours earlier OPA authorized what it called "substantial rises in cotton textile prices" to spur production of shirts and dresses Just before that a general rise of 10 cents a barrel in the price of oil had been authorized by the same official agency under Mr Bowles Steel had been sent up by the government $2 to $12 a ton Building material in cases had been directed by OPA on lumber specifically and an announcement was issued boasting about the tremendous increases which, the government said no longer justified the ceiling production of such materials Two numerous for this terse column were other additional price buts buts—or buttes

Now do you understand? If not I will put it in a nutshell, where it seems to be anyhow The recent wage increase formula is to be liberalized tremendously but not too much greatly a little, maybe and maybe not but the price formula is not to be liberalized one inch in the struggle to hold the bulge against inflation that is not for anything and by this I mean not anything so far except steel building materials fuel, clothing shirts dresses rayon butter and other foods and other materials

This is the way they tell it—officially Yet they wonder why there is confusion

Effort Fails

Seriously I do not think the President is confused as they say I think I can detect a ray of light behind the fiery curtain of words namely this

The government tried to increase wages without increasing prices and I don't think it could not be done Goods were backed up in some lines because these could not be sold at a profit These were being kept in storage Production was discouraged in other lines because it could not be accomplished profitably Adjustment was necessary in order to get distribution of other products Indeed some black markets had become bigger than the white (For further explanation look back up a few columns of the past two weeks) From a political standpoint also the revisions were advisable in order to encourage congress to renew price control authority over the months in the war powers acts expiring June 30

This maneuver is being covered by as confusing a curtain of explanations as ever emanated from a government mimeograph machine and this is saying something as the machines have seldom been geared for frankness

MINE PAY AND COAL—
HIKE IT OR LUMP IT

The United Mine Workers have full notice of intent to strike unless their demands are met

That was as much as the collection plate on Sunday morning

The annual UMW ultimatum has long since replaced the first robin as the surest harbinger of spring

March is the month when furbearing animals end their winter hibernation And John L Lewis is no exception

Lewis won his fight for portal-to-portal pay a few years ago And ever since mine owners have been anticipating a demand that they move the doors back

April first has been set as the new contract deadline After that miners won't go down until wages go up

Incidentally those who foresee atomic energy as "seeing coal in a few years reckon without due credit to the Lewis ingenuity The test the Navy is going to give atomic power will be but a preliminary to the one it'll get when it starts moving in an old John L

Indonesian Election Issue

By Henk Kersting

By The Associated Press

AMSTERDAM—The Indonesian issue dominates a campaign among five political parties now fighting public apathy to get control of the Netherlands government in a parliamentary and provincial election next May

The new leftist Labor party demands self-determination for the empire's overseas peoples Centrist and rightist parties insist on restoration of Dutch rule before further negotiations In addition Laborites call for nationalization of mines public utilities and the Netherlands Bank

Political observers expect no party to win a majority great enough to form a government, but look for the Labor party and the Roman Catholic party both to finish at the top They say a working majority may be found in a "Roman Red" cooperation

The Dutch will vote on candidates for the lower house with its 100 seats provincial council and municipal council and the provincial councils in turn will elect the senate Other parties in the field are the Communists the Christian Historians Protestant and slightly to the right of the Catholics and the ultra-conservative Calvinist party

Voters generally are apathetic to their plea They are wrapped up in a personal problem—the struggle for food, clothing and shelter in a land despoiled by war and occupation

The Labor party is a fusion of the strong Social Democratic workers party Prime Minister Willem Schermerhorn's underground-born Netherlands Peoples Movement and two small parties The Catholic party includes both progressives and conservatives brought together by a common faith

Unlike many European nations the Dutch have no monarchy problem Queen Wilhelmina despite war occupation and dissension is still on the throne and no one seeks to depose her

Putting the Bee on Old Age

ATLANTA—Mrs Helen Dortch Longstreet will tell the confederate generals believe that eating the pollen due of bees hives after honey has been drained from them is a formula for long life

Mrs Longstreet is happy with the bees and is trying to persuade the ranking living confederate soldier who recently celebrated his 100th birthday, to try them and live longer

The indomitable little Mrs Longstreet asked the American ambassador to Moscow W Averell Harriman to obtain a reputed Russian formula for prolonging life Ambassador Harriman wrote that a rumor of a life prolonging substance had been developed by the Russians was probably traceable to some great scientist being conducted by Prof Nesmeli N Tulum

It seems Dr Harriman that during the course of studies of the habits of people over 100 years old living in the Soviet Union it was found that many of these people were engaged in producing and selling honey

"After the best grade of honey had been sold the residue was consumed by those vendors themselves This residue was found to contain significant quantities of pollen

"Prof Tulum feels that the pollen was responsible for prolonging the lives of the people but it has not been established that this is a fact

Even if it had been established that eating pollen would prolong life there would still be the question as to whether longevity results from a whole lifetime of eating pollen or if it is possible to retain the longevity no matter at what stage one began eating pollen"

Absence Makes Taxpayers Ponder

By The Associated Press

HOLYOKE Mass — A municipal truant bill to curb absenteeism has been suggested by the Holyoke Taxpayers Association

Executive Secretary Edwin A Seibel notified the mayor that the association would like to see specifically stated on all municipal payrolls the number of days each employe is absent from his or her work either for reasons of illness or annual vacation leave"

A similar policy for the police department made effective some time ago resulted in a pronounced reduction of absentees Seibel said.

The New GI Loan Plan

By Rowland Evans, Jr.

WASHINGTON March 13—Not a paper will veterans wanting GI loans wear out their pen hand signing documents New Veterans Administration (VA) loan regulations the result of the amended GI Bill call for the veterans signature in one place just once

Like the farm home, distributed to supervised lending institutions to be used when a veteran wants a government - guaranteed home loan under the GI Bill (similar forms have been issued to cover farm and business loans)

Three-quarters of the way down on the back of the application form is a box headed Must be signed by veteran It reads (a) "I declare I do not have an application pending for a loan for the purposes stated herein (b) I previously have used my guarantee benefit for other loan or loans as follows $ for real estate $ for non-real estate"

Greatly Simplified

Then follows the request to the administrator for endorsement of honorable discharge or certificate of eligibility for whatever the amount of the requested guarantee happens to be

Below is the space in which the veteran will put his John Henry

It's as simple as that and a far cry from the old complicated form which had lenders and veterans tearing their hair out by the roots

Here are some other new and simpler loan regulations

The only authority vested in VA is that of appointing local appraisers to see that the price of the property involved in the loan is reasonable"

It used to be "reasonable and normal" Since few values today are "normal," many otherwise sound loans could not be made

Discharge Is Certificate

The veterans honorable discharge now automatically becomes his certificate of eligibility He doesn't have to apply to the VA for one

Veterans who have no honorable discharge still have to make application to VA for the certificate of eligibility The VA takes a keen look at the conditions surrounding his discharge and if they are not dishonorable a certificate is issued

The new loan regulation also do these things

1 Increase the amount of the guarantee to $4 000 on all real estate loans The maximum used to be $2 000

2 Extend the time during which veterans may take advantage of their GI loan privilege from two to 10 years after the official end of the war

3 Extend the period which loans must be repaid 15 years for home loans and 10 years for farm loans

VA Insures Loans

4 Provide for the VA to insure instead of guaranteeing them VA can insure 15 per cent of the aggregate of loans made by any one lender to any number of veterans VA says this plan should broaden the field of credit assistance to veterans

5 Allow the cost of a lot on which a veteran wants to build a home to be included in the loan

6 Allow GI loans to veterans for delinquent indebtedness

7 Broaden and liberalize farm loans so that the loan may be used for practically every ordinary farming purpose

8 Allow inventory and working capital to be included in business loans

9 Extend loan privileges to men on terminal leave and servicemen who are hospitalized pending final discharge

Go to Your Bank

If you're a veteran and want a GI loan don't write the Veterans Administration about it The VA lends no money The place to go is your local bank or trust company

Tell the loan section of your bank that you want to borrow money under the GI Bill of Rights and show your honorable discharge After the loan has been made the VA will guarantee a certain portion (not to exceed 50 per cent) of it The guarantee simply acts as security for the lender and thus make it easier for you to get your loan

More than 76 000 GI loans have already been made They represent a guarantee commitment of almost $133½ million To date VA has paid to lenders a sum of $42 673 on 51 loans which have resulted in claims

Daily Bible Thought

When you do wrong you are entrapping yourself and ruining your future Avoid the trap be at least as wise as a bird in the air Prov 1 17 In vain the net is spread in the sight of any bird and the crafty man wait for their own blood they lurk privily for their own lives"

In a few hours a reply is received that the military had granted an extension for the serviceman to remain home a few more days.

The father-in-law of a serviceman recently contacted the local chapter requesting an emergency furlough for a serviceman stationed overseas because of a serious operation the serviceman's wife was to undergo. The local chapter sent a wire to the National Red Cross Home Service at Washington, D. C., including the doctor's diagnosis of the wife's illness, relationship of the patient to the serviceman, the doctor's definite statement as to the need for serviceman's presence and the importance of the serviceman's presence. Also to the condition of the patient and length of the serviceman's service overseas. The request was referred to the Adjutant General's Office, who granted the furlough and radiogramed the furlough decision to the serviceman's theater commander. The serviceman was brought back to the United States by plane and arrived in time to be with his wife at the time of her operation.

It is interesting to note that since August 1945 at the close of the war through January 1946, the home service department of the Marion County Red Cross chapter has sent 782 wires and has received 607.

The local chapter still receives requests to write for information on health and welfare reports on servicemen overseas. Perhaps the family have not heard for months from the serviceman or the serviceman is writing that he has not had mail from them. A home service worker then writes the Red Cross field director, in care of the serviceman's APO or FPO address, who in turn contacts the soldier or sailor, and gives him the message from home.

If the son has been transferred the chapter is advised and the field director forwards the Red Cross letter to the field director covering the serviceman's new station. All problems pertaining to communications are handled through the home service department.

Army Engineers Decline To OK LaRue Flood Control Proposal

Special to The Star

LARUE, March 13—Lt. Col. George W. Kibler and William H. Booth of the Cincinnati flood control board, a section of the Army Engineers, declined to approve LaRue flood control proposals presented to them at a special meeting of the LaRue Business Men's association here last night. The Cincinnati engineers had been invited to discuss flood control projects and a proposal to dredge and straighten the Scioto river in this area was submitted by a committee of local business men and farmers.

It was the opinion of the guest speakers that such straightening and dredging did not solve the problem, literally shoving it on down the river. They also rejected a proposal to build a dike around LaRue on the grounds that the cost, $400,000, was too high, considering the value of the affected property. However, if such projects are drafted they suggested application to the state conservation department.

Their own recommendations, developed after extensive study of the entire Northwestern Ohio area, are to build a 4,000 foot dam three miles southeast of Kenton to divert water from the Scioto river into the Sandusky river via the Tymochtee creek. To control floods in the Sandusky river area a reservoir covering 16,000 acres would be built near Marseilles.

Once this project was completed water could be diverted in either direction, depending upon the need. It would lower the level of the highest flood at LaRue by four feet.

Col. Kibler explained that this would be a federal project and require an appropriation from congress. He said the Army Engineers were not interested in more localized projects.

The association appointed Mayor John Markey and Don Clements as delegates to a meeting of the Northwestern Ohio Drainage association Friday night in Findlay.

Dwight Baker presided at the meeting and Rev. William Meyer, secretary of the association, had charge of the arrangements. Marion men who attended were Clyde Porterfield of the state highway department, Walter Johnson, county engineer and Dr. N. Siffrit, county health commissioner.

hope that fortune will deal kindly with the motherland.

Along with them was an entirely different class which also radiated not only hope but confidence and a determination to get the best out of a bad situation. They were the tanned young men and women skiers who seize every opportunity to pursue their favorite sport in the Tyrol.

Good and Bad Too

There were a few obvious war profiteers who travel back and forth making a profit out of their country's suffering, and there were honest tradesmen who still believe in Austria and are taking a hand in her reconstruction.

There were, of course, the inevitable Army officers, for at one time or another during the 24-hour journey you will encounter British, American, French and Russians.

These represent the forces of occupation, which for years will maintain order while Austria is undergoing rehabilitation and reform. There also were numerous UNRRA workers of various nationalities, representing humanitarian efforts to help the fallen country.

The trip into the occupied zones of Austria is filled with thrills and some anxiety. Not only do civilian passengers have to carry passports, which are up to date in every detail, but both civilians and military have to provide themselves with permits to pass through the American, French and Russian control zones.

Forget one of these permits and you are in for trouble. The Americans took a man and woman off our train, but whether it was for lack of permits or for some other reason wasn't made known.

Examination of permits goes on through the night and it was about four o'clock when the Russians went through the train. It was a tense time, for they accept no arguments in place of correct permits.

Much Is Undamaged

You begin your trip amidst the grandeur of the Alps and for hours run through country untouched by force. There is nothing visible to indicate that this is part of a defeated nation. Gradually, however, you begin to note bridges which have been destroyed by bombing and then as you come into the industrial areas there are towns and cities which have suffered heavily.

Vienna is a shocking state of destruction from bombs and gunfire, but the devastation is nothing like so complete as it is in Berlin and in many other German cities we have visited. Many of its fine buildings can be restored.

Mrs. Mack and I are housed in what was one of the capital's foremost hotels, which is now used by the American Army. Half this hotel was destroyed but the other half is still its luxurious self. From the windows of our quarters we look across to the city opera house, which is heavily damaged but which last night was able to provide facilities for an opera.

Austria and its capital will take long to recover, but they are on their way.

CONGRESS MAPS WAR AGAINST LOBBYISTS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 13 — House leaders set out today to crack down on lobbyists.

Their effort—launched amid assertions that Washington is "seething" with representatives of pressure groups—has a twin goal:

1. To ease pressure on congressmen, and

2. To bring into the open foes of such key administration proposals as continuance of OPA.

Whether the house leadership will back an all-out investigation into lobbyists' activities or merely direct a series of public blasts at them remained uncertain.

Chairman Sabath (D-Ill) of the rules committee and a frequent administration spokesman, wants the house to order a thorough inquiry. He introduced a bill yesterday calling for the creation of a five-member investigating committee.

His move came only a day after Speaker Rayburn (D-Texas) told the house that Washington "for the past six months has been loaded down and seething with utility lobbyists."

Recalling that he had fought "utility lobbyists" in 1935 when he sponsored the present Holding Company act, Rayburn added in one of his infrequent speeches from the floor:

"If they're spoiling for another fight with me they can get it."

Their assertions followed denunciations of lobbyists last week by Stabilization Director Chester Bowles in a radio address and Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt in testimony before the house banking committee.

Discussing his proposal for an investigation with a reporter, Sabath said he wants it aimed particularly at "the lobby fighting housing legislation, trying to weaken price control and to prevent development of public power."

After the Norman conquest of Britain there were more than 70 mints coining gold and silver in the country, more than now exist in the world.

EXPERT ON BALKANS IS ROTARY SPEAKER

Talks on Conditions Following War in Europe.

Theodore Andrica, naturalized son of the Cleveland Press who recently concluded a five months tour through Italy Yugoslavia Czechoslovakia and Roumania, spoke to the Marion Rotary club and guests in the club's weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday at Hotel Harding

Mr Andrica said Europeans are pessimists and Americans are optimists and that America looks to the future for the best while the Europeans look to the past. He compared the nylon stocking line in the United States with the bread line in Europe, declaring the American women are wondering if they will get any nylons and the Europeans are wondering what they will get to eat

Mr Andrica recognized authority on the Balkans, said people of central Europe are classified into three categories those who have been robbed once more than once or not at all People travel only when they must as there are poor means of transportation One side of a country may be healthy while the other side is starving The peasant or small man has grown to believe nothing except that the man with food is boss.

As evidence of the hardships due to inflation faced by Europeans Mr Andrica related that an American cigaret in some parts of Europe would cost $2 a bar of chocolate $1 two pounds of sugar $35 Earnings of a university's professor are $3 a week in American money government clerks receive $2 a month, men's hose cost $1 and ladies hose $2 therefore a woman's wages for a month would be a pair of hose and no meals An ordinary meal in Paris would be $10 in Italy $5

Guests of the club were Charles H Yohling of Youngstown Herbert James of Chicago, and Chris Turoff and T S Cathers of Marion The student reporter from Harding High school was Peggy Dixon.

Press Secretary Charles G Ross was asked at a news conference about a series of reports published in Britain that Mr Truman was seeking a new meeting of the Big Three that the President had been in communication with British Prime Minister Attlee and that he also was trying to contact Marshal Stalin

Ross said that Mr Truman will hold his weekly news conference at 4 p m (EST) tomorrow Questions on foreign situation likely will be asked then by newsmen ability unquestioned, with honor unsullied."

Ickes Is Ignored

Neither the President nor Pauley made personal reference to Ickes or his testimony during the senate hearings

Ickes testified that Pauley had told him that he could raise $100 000 from oil men for the Democratic campaign if the administration abandoned efforts to get government title to Tidelands areas

Ickes referred to this as the greatest proposition he had ever heard Pauley denied he had suggested it

In a letter latest today Pauley told the President that all charges made against him have been answered and will be false

Pauley replied

But the matter does not complete the answers to false charges made by Ickes I believe there is any official duty for the current hysteria that has been engendered by these misrepresentations Under these circumstances I do not feel that I would have the opportunity to render the Navy or the High office of Secretary with the full confidence which I believe Accordingly I ask only to withdraw my name from consideration

Mr Truman replied in his letter that he saw no public interest in the matter at this time

Observe 60th Wedding Anniversary at Upper

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, March 13—Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Halbedel, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary today at their home at 119 East Finley street.

A quiet observance of the day was planned, because of the failing health of Mr. Halbedel. Monday was his 81st birthday. Mrs. Halbedel is two years younger.

Both are natives of Wyandot county and they were married in Nevada. Mr. Halbedel was for several years news editor of the Daily Chief, and served two terms as Wyandot county auditor and was once supervisor of examiners for Ohio. He was employed in the state auditor's department nearly 30 years. He returned to Upper Sandusky ten years ago.

Among those extending congratulations will be Mrs. Halbedel's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rhuark of Upper Sandusky, who last week celebrated their 58th wedding anniversary.
